

The Eight Corporate Laws of Gravity

1. There is no justice. Fairness is a human construct.
2. Nothing ever happens the way it is supposed to.
3. People will not do what they should do.
4. People will consider their own feelings and interests before they consider yours.
Never assume someone is malicious when his ignorance is sufficient to explain his actions.
5. Whenever there are people, there will be politics. We feel that politics occur when things go against us.
6. There will never be a time of smooth sailing.
7. The federal government was not created to make your job easier or more efficient.
8. All the information will never be in.
